

My name is John Mann. I am the lead singer and a principle songwriter in the band Spirit of the West. It has always bothered me that young music lovers, the people that buy the t-shirts, that live and breath the music, are not allowed into clubs to see and hear the bands they appreciate. I have toured extensively in the UK, Germany, Austria and Switzerland where they have a simple wrist band system that allows underaged people into venues. I'm pleased to support the Safe Amplification Site Society in their bid to bring live music to the younger generation. Safe Amplification Site Society is offering a venue that is not only free of drugs and alcohol but also a space that is welcoming of all ages. What's not to like about it. Support this worthy endeavour.
